THE STRATEGY

- De-clutter & deep clean every surface
- Repaint scuffed walls the same warm white
- ONE accent colour (navy) — kill the rest
- Soft furnishings do the heavy lifting
- Layer texture, not colour, for warmth
- Style kitchen bar + add bar-stool cushions
- Greenery + mirrors to lift & enlarge
- Re-shoot listing photos in daylight

The Plan

The apartment has good bones — high ceilings, an open plan, a granite kitchen bar and an already-renovated bathroom. What drags the value down is visual chaos: red curtains, lime-green chairs, an orange papasan and yellow bedding all clashing against cold grey tile. The fix is the palette, not the structure.

Design direction

- Warm white walls + soft-linen curtains + greige upholstery as the base.
- ONE accent colour — the existing navy sofas — everything else neutral.
- Layer texture not colour: jute rug, rattan, light wood, plants, brass.
- Warm-white 2700K bulbs throughout to kill the clinical feel.

Room-by-room

- Living/lounge: linen curtains, greige slipcovers on the lime chairs, jute rug under the table, a tall plant in the empty corner, neutral art.
- Bedroom: hotel-white bedding + charcoal throw, soft-linen curtains, small bedside rug, one piece of art.
- Kitchen/bar: already strong — just style it (stool cushions, bowl, herb plant, declutter). Optional peel-and-stick backsplash.
- Bathroom: already on-trend — leave it; add white towels + a plant.
- Balcony: bistro set + potted plants turns it into an outdoor selling point.

Why the ROI is high

Spend is one-off and mostly portable, with no permits, trades or downtime — doable in a weekend. A cohesive, bright, move-in-ready look supports a higher asking rent, lets faster and photographs far better. A $600-700 outlay like this commonly supports $30-60/month more rent and a shorter void — a payback in roughly a year, then pure profit.

Deliberately avoided: wall removal, re-tiling, kitchen/bath rebuild, rewiring — all high-cost, low-return for a rental at this level.
